I am a self-taught developer from Brazil, currently based in Lisbon, Portugal. I am very passionate about programming and would like to have an opportunity to work with the technologies listed here. I am also eager to learn new technologies and improve myself as a developer.

I have excellent communication skills, and I can easily adapt to new cultures, as I have taught languages for many years and lived in several countries.

My Projects

Meal Planner App

- The program loops over the objects in a JS file, and displays information about each recipe on the screen.
- The user can add, remove meals and cross off items they have already purchased.
- The number of servings and price is updated whenever a meal is added or removed.
